Many Injured.

Miss Mary Grace, aged 17, of 1229 Seventy-first street, Brooklyn, was killed at East Pachogue, L. I., last night when she lost control of an automobile which bumped over a stone and hit a tree. The girl was hurled out, striking her head. In the car with her were her sister, Clara, 19, who was slightly injured, David J. Mann, 17, of 178 West Ninety-fourth street, Manhattan, also slightly injured, and Harold F. Burns, 1512 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn, who was seriously hurt.

The dead girl is the daughter of Patrick J. Grace and she and her sister were spending a vacation at Pachogue. The young men came down from Manhattan yesterday to take them for a ride. They had been to Blue Point for a swim and were returning with Miss Mary at the wheel when the accident occurred.

Miss Augusta Schultz, 30, of 600 Humboldt street, Brooklyn, died early yesterday in the Nassau County Hospital from injuries received when an automobile in which she was riding ran over an embankment on the Parkway opposite Mitchell Field at Mineola Saturday afternoon. The car was driven by Frederick Evers, who suffered slight injuries.

Killed by Doctor's Car.
Mrs. Mary Hardin, 68, a maid employed by Mrs. K. W. Arpe of 244 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn, died yesterday in the Ann Mary Hospital at Spring Lake, N. J., from injuries sustained when she was struck by an automobile driven by Dr. Edward P. Essertles of 275 State street, Hackensack. Mrs. Arpe's summer home was close to the scene of the accident at Ocean and St. Clair avenues in Spring Lake.

When turning into Rogers avenue from Clarkson avenue in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon, the car, a Buick, crashed into a telephone pole and Milton Grossman, nine weeks old, was thrown from his mother's lap to the sidewalk from the rear seat of the machine. The child is in the Kings County Hospital, where it is said he is dying. The mother is in the same hospital suffering from internal injuries.

Chief of Police F. J. Snow and the Coroner learned Mrs. Fricke tried to throw herself into Manhattan Bay, but was restrained, three months ago, and about six weeks ago had succeeded in getting into the water, but was rescued.

GIRL SLIPS AND DROWNS
Three Men Lost in Bay and River.

Elizabeth Mautner, 16, 1317 Franklin avenue, The Bronx, was drowned yesterday in Rahway River, Rahway, N. J., when she lost her footing when posing for a snapshot in a bathing suit. Three men were drowned, a woman was rescued and the body of a young man drowned Tuesday was found yesterday.

James Stevens of Barnett street, Rahway, returning from a snapshot, told shouts, saw the girl and swam out to her. He grasped her several times, but each time he was forced to break her frenzied hold and he barely reached shore without losing his own life.

Miss Mautner's father, Joseph Mautner, a postal clerk, was about to take her picture when, it is believed, she was swept off her feet by the current. The fun was visiting friends in Rahway. The body was recovered.

Walter Zembrowski, 30, of 153 Avenue E, Bayonne, N. J., drowned when the rowboat in which he and two other men were crabbing in New York Bay overturned. His companions swam ashore. Zembrowski leaves a wife and five children.

Arthur Crawford, 24, 320 Fifth avenue, Jersey City, a negro, crabbing with his brother, Alexander, from a trestle of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, fell into New York Bay and was drowned. His brother tried unsuccessfully to rescue him. Neither his nor Zembrowski's body has been recovered.

James Sullivan, 40, an employee of the J. T. Kane Cement Company, Ninety-sixth street and North River, fell from a plank near the concern's property and was drowned. When fellow workers who had seen him fall reached the spot Sullivan had disappeared. The marine police recovered the body.

Two employees of the Standard Oil Company—Joseph Stanley, a bridge mate, and George Kaiser, a watchman, of 2348 First avenue—rescued Mrs. Jennie Kennedy, 34, of 1305 Second avenue, who leaped off a pier at West Thirtieth street after quarreling with her husband.

The body of Samuel Solomon, 22, of 390 Miller avenue, Brooklyn, who disappeared into the ocean at West Thirtieth street, Coney Island, was washed ashore at Sea Gate.

The building and island are owned by William H. Warburton of New York, and the loss is $40,000. The club is managed by George McDonald, of New York, who barely escaped from the burning building. There were about eight thousand dollars in money and personal effects belonging to Mr. McDonald, and $1,000 in diamonds which were lost in the fire.

Doctors say that her cure will in all probability be permanent. The recovery of her hearing and the use of her vocal cords followed an attack of pneumonia, aggravated by influenza. Doctors have been unable to solve the mystery of her cure.

Fight Over Girl.

Thomas Giglio, 22, took a ride on a Brooklyn trolley car yesterday just to see how things looked after being away more than two years, but he had not gone far when Detective Charles Pritikin of the Bergen street station arrested him on a charge of murder. Giglio formerly lived at 713 Henry street, Brooklyn. On April 30, 1920, it is alleged, he stabbed to death Samuel Milano, 30, of 627 Union street, in a fight over a girl at 623 Portland street.

Just before he died Milano blamed Giglio. Yesterday Giglio told the police he called the day after the murder and remained a year in Italy. Then, thinking the crime forgotten, he decided to return, arriving here Saturday.

JOHNSTOWN'S BEER OASIS
A PENNSYLVANIA MIRAGE
Flood of Amber Fails to Flow and the Mayor's Proclamation Becomes Merely a Trick to Draw on the Dry Sleuths and Stop Moonshine Sales.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 20.—So far as could be learned this evening by Johnstown hotel proprietors or brewers have openly accepted the immunity offer made by Mayor Joseph Cauffiel that they will not be prosecuted in the event they make and sell good beer and that the manufacture of near beer be abandoned.

They have been told by their attorneys that Mayor Cauffiel's jurisdiction extends only as far as deals with the enforcement of the city's ordinances, and that while he has made them safe from prosecution under city statutes, they do not feel that he has the authority to grant permission to sell beer, and that Federal officers surely will bring prosecutions in the event they find any

They are convinced that State Prohibition Director Davis, who yesterday caused the transfer of Agent C. T. Sprague of Philadelphia to this city, intends to throw an extra force of men into Johnstown within the next few days to arrest all violators of the national prohibition laws, and they are convinced that Mayor Cauffiel was seeking such a move when he told the brewers and hotel men that they might make and sell all the good beer they desired so long as they helped him in the enforcement of prohibition by not selling any moonshine whisky, which has appeared in large quantities here within the last few weeks.

WIFE ENDS HER LIFE DRESSING FOR DANCE

Mrs. W. H. Fricke Shoots Herself at Port Washington Summer Home.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Gertrude Fricke, wife of William H. Fricke, a New York real estate operator, shot and killed herself last night at 10 o'clock in a bedroom of the Fricke home on Station road.

Mrs. Fricke, according to the authorities here, had tried twice within three months to commit suicide by drowning, but was rescued by friends.

Mrs. Fricke had been suffering from a nervous ailment, and is believed to have become discouraged over her condition last night she seemed unusually cheerful, and about ten o'clock went upstairs to dress for a dance at the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, of which Mrs. Fricke is a member. Mr. Fricke, with Mr. and Mrs. Coleman E. Andke, awaited her downstairs.

Mrs. Fricke's mother, who lived with her daughter, started upstairs a few moments later and heard a shot as she reached the first landing. Mr. Fricke rushed into his wife's room and found her dead on the floor. She had shot herself in the temple with a revolver, which lay beside her.

Chief of Police F. J. Snow and the Coroner learned Mrs. Fricke tried to throw herself into Manhattan Bay, but was restrained, three months ago, and about six weeks ago had succeeded in getting into the water, but was rescued.

CONVICTS TO HAVE TRAINING IN TRADES

State Reclamation Program
Will Provide Occupation
for Every Prisoner.

FIRST SURVEY FINISHED

System Will Bring Considerable Income Through Sale of Products.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau,
Albany, Aug. 20.

Under a reclamation program now being worked out by Gov. Miller and the State Prison Department it is planned to provide occupation for every convict in the State's prisons, which will not only make him a useful citizen on his release, but will bring a considerable income to the State through the sale of the products manufactured.

Gov. Miller said the first survey has just been completed and that it shows that uniform standards for the conduct and operation of the shops are essential. This will be worked out at a conference in Albany this week, which will be attended by James L. Long, Deputy State Superintendent of Prisons; Frank L. Glynn, Superintendent of Industries, and several deputy superintendents of industries.

"From a manufacturing viewpoint," said the Governor, "the conduct of the prison shops offers opportunity for large development. It is also apparent that prison administration must be considered as a basic element."

Comparative Information.
"Uniform cost accounting records of production are to be installed in each prison so that comparative information can be obtained showing the results attained by each institution. This is necessary in order to discover the potential wage value of the labor involved and the competency of those employed in the shops."

"The attainment of the men will regulate their classification in production, on which the wage rate will later be based, and their adaptability to the various divisions of labor, which are being standardized, will allow a definite up-grading system of placement in order of ability and accomplishment."

"Further, a method of assignment for the men will be established to give them the kind of work for which they are best fitted physically as well as by their special training and experience."

"Consistent with this, the foremen and their assistants are required to be experts in their various lines so as not only properly to control the manufacturing operations involved in the product and care for the equipment, but also properly to instruct and encourage the men."

"Close coordination of the market is being planned through the Bureau of Standards and it is hoped that in the municipal authorities will lend their aid in the program by purchasing as much as possible through the State Prison Department at Albany."

"We not only want to make good desks, chairs, clothing, shoes and other articles, but we must also join in the common State problem of making men so that they may go into communities productive, self-supporting and useful, thoroughly equipped to fit into employment opportunities."

New Shop Building.
"A new shop building will soon be under construction at Dannemora. It will be built of concrete and steel and will compare favorably with any usual factory building, with plenty of light, good ventilation and proper sanitary conditions."

"As the State profits by the production of the men in confinement, and as the men profit through this opportunity which will be available at no far distant time, so must the conditions meet the production needs and conform as nearly as possible to the standards of similar manufacturing outside."

When asked as to the development of new lines of manufacturing in the prisons, the Governor explained: "We have several lines of development under consideration. We first plan to do what we are at present doing, giving special attention to the man and the product. Later other activities will be added as soon as the potential market for the product is fully analyzed so as to be sure we are on a sound business basis."

"I may say that a more extraordinary misconception of a statute has never come under my observation and which this construction hardly any candidate could have escaped violating it."

It is much to be desired that all of us try

To make people happy in their work. To be too exacting and never satisfied with what our workers do adds to their discontent.

People who accept places should be fit for the work expected of them, and if not, they should make themselves fit or quit of their own accord.

An employer must not expect too much, and must find ways to advise and encourage.
